

geology of Eigg
and the ^{small} isles.

A pyroclastic flow - a hot suspension of rock particles and gases - swamped the landscape.

The oldest intact rock found on Earth the date is from the Acasta Gneiss complex of Northwest Canada.

Eigg is mostly formed by basalt lava flows and intrusions, the remains of extensive volcanic activity.

